To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman No.119

[Milton Hill, Milton, Mass.] The writer says that she would give the addressee $100 instead of the enclosed ten if she could, but that she cannot join her in her public interests. The writer reads and hears little on the subject of Abolition, although she loves "a black face" and "would have all free." But the writer has a distaste for public life, is "a perfect fool about politics," and has "a holy horror of societies." Although she always responds to the writings of Dr. William Ellery Channing, the writer cannot go "hand in hand" with the addressee or Mrs. Eliza Lee Follen or Susan Cabot. The writer mentions a last visit to [illegible] childhood home in Pearl St., the illness and death of he[illegible]t Perkins," and other happenings. Comments on the addressee's harmony of interests with her sisters and her husband.]

To "My dear Friend" ‹Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman?› No.92

‹Milton, (Mass.)› The writer is going to his island to escape the tainted air of Boston and get some sleep. He will ask his friend Mrs.(?) H. M. Chapman, who runs a "Typewriter", to send the addressee a copy of what he wrote to "friend Whittier" and perhaps one of the latter's answer. The addressee will have seen what W. L. Garrison Jr. wrote, "which is worthy of his great Father." The addressee's note was "exactly right" and came in time to reach the "infected districts of Boston and New Bedford with Col. Hallowell's pithy telegraph to the sergeant who left his leg & carried off his colors from the slippery ramparts of Fort Wagner." Francis G. Shaw has gone. "Nobody has yet [illegible]ated that best epitaph of his on Col. ‹Robert G.› Shaw, [illegible]er than any I know in history,

Started his career with his uncles, James and Thomas H. Perkins, but subsequently went to work for Russell & Co. in the China trade. Became a partner in 1834. Returned to Boston from China in 1837 and founded the firm of J. M. Forbes & Co. Bought control of the Michigan Central in 1846 and later acquired control of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R.R. In 1861 he promoted the use of negro troops, helped organize the U. S. Sanitary Commission and the New England Loyal Publication Society. Was sent to England by Pres. Lincoln on a mission to buy cruisers and raiders then being fitted out for the Confederacy. Was unsuccessful, but, while in London, managed to obtain a loan to the U. S. from Baring Bros. ‹Philadelphia› Read in "Mr. Poulson's Daily Advertiser" that Mrs. Stansbury of Trenton, N.J. had given $1000 to the Colonization Society. Thinks Mrs. S. should have offered the money as a premium to master mechanics "to obtain their consent to take Coloured Children as Apprentices ..." Is greatly astonished that clergymen should favor colonization. Has never talked to a colored man who wanted to return to Africa. Mentions the fact that negroes fought for freedom in the Revolution. Clergymen should try to stop the domestic slave trade. Plans a meeting of negroes, to whom the Liberator will be made "more generally known." The contributions to the Liberator signed "Ada" and "A" wer[illegible]tten by his daughters.

«Philadelphia» Has been much discouraged by the slight progress of the Anti-Slavery cause, but his hopes are renewed by W.L.G.'s and S. S. Jocelyn's visit, and the founding of the N. E. :East Hampton, Conn.: Has been in place, where she has sister, over a week; prospect of rousing it for cause of abolition is discouraging; recounts at length impressions received at visit in Fort Lee with Theodore and Angelina (Grimké) Weld; Angelina is very feeble; lecturing was too great a strain, and she worked too hard assisting on Slavery as it is. Sarah M. Grimké and Angelina (Grimké) Weld seem to hold that "any other unpopular cause, if espoused by abolitionists, will retard the progress of that cause." Theodore D. [Utica, N.Y.] Wants her to take charge of the Nat. Anti-Slavery Standard, to unify the factions. Thinks John A. Collins not "disposed to do those things that make for peace in the American Society." With all his unbounded "liberality", he is intolerant of those that differ from him. There is no unity in the Third Party faction. The Liberty Press is held in contempt. C.T. Torrey's Daily Patriot has become a weekly, "and is now so weakly its existence is despaired of." The American Citizen has come to an end. The American Society must do something about political action, to which doctrine there have been many converts during the last y[illegible] The writer explains her political position: only m [illegible]iving no support to slavery in church or state may be v[illegible]ed voted for. "Heaven avert such a catastrophe." Considers Mrs. Lydia M. Child "far better qualified notwithstanding her 'hatred of the work of reform.'" D. L. Child's letter in the New Hampshire Gazette is "a plain invitation to support the Whig party ..." Joseph C. Mrs. Wright would also like suggestions relative to fairs. The writer expresses dissatisfaction "with the movement at the N«ew» E«ngland»Convention touching agencies. Does it not in effect annul the American Society? Does it not look like arrogance on the part of Boston -" Elaborates this theme. Emphasizes the effectiveness of work concentrated on small sections in contrast to the more sensational procedure in conventions, as the writer discovered by her own experience in Ce[illegible]l New York. preoccupations: he cannot talk to the A. S. conventions, as his soul is not in them. Writes sarcastically of his persistence in holding "property meetings" in various places. The writer protests that she is not prejudiced, but admires Collins as a man; however, affairs are shockingly mismanaged. Sidney Howard Gay has just joined Bradburn and Douglass. Tells of friction between Collins and C.L. Remond.

‹Seneca Falls, N.Y.› The writer considers the addressee "a most terribly severe disciplinarian" in reference to George Bradburn and James N. Buffum. Suggests that tho addressee write to the latter as a friend and make clear to him "that ‹Gerrit› Smith by endorsing New Organization is inflicting as deep an injury as St.Clair or Torrey..." The writer asserts that "some people you cannot drive from the cause, S.S.Foster, for instance." Collins remains in Central New York, Jacob Ferris, George Bradburn and Frederick Douglass are now in Ohio. Collins urged the writer to accompany them, but her judgment forbade it. To "My dear Friend"

«Portland, Me.» "I see by the report of our Annual meeting that Mr. Phillips's motion for a committee is represented as having for its object only the raising of funds ..." The writer thought it called for a discussion of Anti-Slavery principles. Wants the Executive Committee of the American Anti-Slavery Society to issue an address to the whole country. Will leave Mrs. Olds's subscription to the Liberty Bell with S. May Jr. The writer's daughter is sick. Talks about the Portland sewing circle. "Sarah Southwick is its soul ..." Will try to collect money from General Dow.

To "My dear Friend"

[New York] The writer tells of the results of "a tour of finance." Collected contributions from Rebecca Spring in Ohio, T. D. Weld and J. G. Birney. Remarks on the long absence of Birney and Weld "from our columns as co-operators." Objects to the use of her name on an Anti-Slavery Bazaar call, because she disapproves of raffles. "I will try to write a bit for the Bell, but I have great doubt of succeeding ..." Asks the addressee to say nothing about her services to the cause. "O! it is dreadful, this business of asking for money ..."

To "My dear friend" «Anne Warren Weston»

«Rochester, (N.Y.)» "I got your letter by Mr. Thompson, but will say nothing about his going to the west at this time..." Reports the amount of money she has collected for the American Anti-Slavery Society. "Can't we have somebody to bring a force into the field and conquer everything before us ..." The wife of the Rev. Jason Olds of Ohio sent the writer $5 for a subscription to the Liberty Bell.

To Rev. Samuel May Jr. No.64

[West Brookfield, Mass.] Rev. May had written a letter to Foster objecting to the sale of Goodell's Slavery and Anti-Slavery on the ground that it would mislead persons unfamiliar with the subject matter. The writer replied that only persons familiar with the subject would buy the book. He deplores the feud between the Old and New Organizations. Says he needs the agency of the Mass.
